Budget Result

As you update the budget for each individual expense in the sheet, you'll see how much is available in your total starting funds next to "Budget Remaining."

You determine your budget results by subtracting the total budget available from the total spend.

- If the budget result is $0, that means you spent the exact amount you had available.
- If the budget result is negative (below $0), that means you spent more than the total funds available. Try finding areas where you can save money or expenses you can cut out entirely.
- If the budget result is positive (above $0), you've got money left over! That's great news if you want to splurge a bit more on your honeymoon or boost your savings for a down payment on your dream house after the wedding.
